Tenses, Passive, and Reading Notices

Bahasa Inggris · Fase D · Kelas 7, 8, 9

Present perfect with since and for, passive voice, first conditional, text types, reported speech, and reading tone and arguments.

LEARNING GOALS

1. use since and for with the present perfect
2. change active sentences into the passive
3. use the first conditional
4. recognise procedure, recount, descriptive, and narrative texts
5. find the tone of a text and evidence that supports a claim

PART 1

since and for

since + a starting point: since 2019, since Monday. for + a length of time: for five years, for two days. "She has lived here since 2019."

PART 2

Passive voice

PASSIVE

object + be + past participle (+ by ...)

Active: People recycle paper. Passive: Paper is recycled. Use the passive when the action matters more than who does it.

PART 3

If it rains ...

FIRST CONDITIONAL

If + present simple, will + verb

If it rains, we will stay at home. It talks about a real possibility.

PART 4

Kinds of text

Procedure: how to make or do something (goal, materials, steps). Recount: what happened in the past. Descriptive: what a particular thing is like. Narrative: a story with a problem and a resolution. Short functional texts like notices and announcements give practical information.

PART 5

Reading between the lines

"Great, another rainy day," said Tom, looking at his ruined shoes. The word is positive, but the situation is not. This is sarcasm, and it shows Tom is annoyed.

Good evidence is connected to the claim. "Bicycles produce no exhaust gas" supports "cycling is good for the environment". "My bicycle is red" does not.
